GIRNAR : THE SACRED MOUNTAIN OF GUJARAT

Girnar, also known as Girinagar or Revatak Parvata, is a group of mountains in Junagadh, District of Gujarat. It's considered older than the Himalayas. Trek to Girnar Hill starts from Girnar Taleti. Rising dramatically from the plains, is covered with Jain and Hindu temples. Pilgrims from far and wide come to tackle the long climb up 10,000 stone steps to the summit, which is best begun at dawn.

The Bhavnath Mela over five days in the month of Magha (January–February) brings folk music and dancing and throngs of nagas (Saivite holy men) to Bhavnath Mahadev Temple at Girnar Taleti. It marks the time when Shiva is believed to have danced his cosmic dance of destruction. The Girnar Parikrama festival is held in October/November.
